ENGLISH TRANSLATIONS

An acceptable translation is produced by someone qualified to translate from the language of the document into English, including any technical or legal terms used in the document.

The translation must be a full and complete translation of the entire document including the meaning of any titles, stamps, or seals. A summary of the document is not acceptable. A translation of only portions of the document is not acceptable.

The translation must include a certification signed by the translator that must be printed legibly or typed. Such certification must include a statement that the translator is competent to translate the document; list title, position and qualification; and state that the translation is true; complete and accurate to the best of the translator's abilities. The statement must be signed and dated.

Translations that do not meet all the above qualifications cannot be accepted.
